

ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

The North Dakota Public Health Association awards are presented annually to those individuals who have made remarkable contributions to public health in North Dakota.

Public Health Worker of the Year Award: recognizes a member who has made a significant contribution in the field of public health in the past year.

Outstanding Service Award: honors an individual who has exhibited continued excellence in the field of public health.

Longevity Award: recognizes NDPHA members who have maintained continuous membership for 10, 20, and 30 years.

AWARD NOMINATION FORM(s):

North Dakota Public Health Association Public Health Worker of the Year Award: This award honors a current member of NDPHA for outstanding Public Health contributions or achievements this past year in North Dakota.

In recognition of outstanding contributions or achievements in North Dakota Public Health, I (include your name, address, telephone number) nominate:

Full name of Nominee: _____

Agency: _____

Address: _____

Telephone (Business): _____ (Home): _____

Describe the current creative work or achievements performed which makes this nominee worthy of the award. How has this contributed to the improvement of ND public health? Consider unique personal skills, abilities, and attitudes of the nominee. Give examples of how the individual's traits, work, or achievements have been used to promote ND public health.

North Dakota Public Health Association Outstanding Service Award: This award honors an individual, either lay or professional, for outstanding work or achievement over their lifetime in the field of public health.

The nominee may be a member of NDPHA or can be chosen from any lay or professional group. The major portion of achievement shall have been accomplished in North Dakota, or by a North Dakota native in another state or at the federal level. This individual shall have contributed to the actual promotion and advancement of public health.

In recognition of meritorious contributions to the advancement of public health, I (include your name, address, telephone #) nominate:
